Dear Ms. Suranofsky,

My name is Franklin Ng. I am a rising junior at Binghamton University majoring in Accounting and Management Information Systems. I am on the path to completing the 3+1 program at Binghamton. I have developed my leadership and project management skills by participating in different activities and organizations on campus.

Working at The American College of Financial Services interested me because I wanted to learn more about different sectors of the financial services industry. I wanted hands-on experience working in the industry while applying the theory I learned through my coursework. My internship in the Academics department allowed me to deepen my understanding of the industry from the ground up.

Thank you, Ms. Suranofsky, for generously sponsoring this opportunity and experience through the New York Life Internship program. It has been a monumental learning experience. I improved my communication skills, learned about different aspects within the industry, and gained valuable experience with various tools like Excel, AirTable, and SharePoint. I enjoyed learning about Philanthropy through the CAP® department and helping re-design the SharePoint website for the CFP® department. I am grateful for my time at The College and will take the lessons I learned with me on future endeavors. Thank you, again, for the opportunity.

Sincerely,

Franklin Ng
